A Weekly edition of the WHIG STANDARD for country circulation is published every Saturday morning, at ONE DOLLAR per annum, in advance.

PROSPECTUS.

THE undersigned, believing that a cheap daily Whig newspaper at the seat of Government would prove a valuable auxiliary to the Whig cause during the approaching Presidential contest, will publish, on the first Monday in November next, a thorough and decided Whig paper, entitled,

THE WHIG STANDARD, devoted to the principles and policy of that party, as laid down in the following declarations by HENRY CLAY:

1. "A sound National Currency, regulated by the will and authority of the Nation;
2. "An adequate revenue, with fair protection to American Industry;
3. "Just restraints on the Executive Power, embracing further restrictions on the exercise of the Veto;
4. "A faithful administration of the Public Domain, with an equitable distribution of the proceeds of the sales of it among the States;
5. "An honest and economical administration of the General Government, leaving public officers perfect freedom of thought, and of the right of suffrage, but with suitable restraints against improper interference in elections;
6. "An amendment of the Constitution limiting the incumbent of the Presidential office to a single term."

To this announcement we believe every true and ardent Whig will favorably respond. The hearts of the Whig army, whose ranks were unbroken, and whose banners floated unstricken during the campaign of '40, must, everywhere, swell with glorious pride at the memory of the past, and their hopes encouraged by their joyful anticipations of the future. It is true a nightmare of treachery now rests upon the energies of the party; but shall we not arouse to the importance of the political conflict which is about to ensue? There are at this time five opposition papers at the Seat of Government, each, in its way, endeavoring to sap the foundations of the Whig party, and blasting the prosperity of the country by the measures they propose. Shall we not rally against the foes excited by these emissaries, whose corrupt and atrocious motives are manifest by their early wrangling for spoils which they never can win? We know the response of millions of freemen will be "AT RALLY!" Already the "hum of either army still sounds;" already the general furnishing of arms "gives dreadful note of preparation;" then let ours be a bright and death-dealing sword in the conflict. Let us rally under a leader upon whose standard is inscribed "Liberty, Order, the Constitution;" whose great political and personal virtues endear him to every generous heart, and whose patriotism has never been excelled—let us rally for HENRY CLAY, the Statesman and Sage, the friend of the workingman, the idol of his country, which, for forty years, next to his God, has had his chief care.

In addition to the thorough Whig course which this paper will pursue, its readers will be furnished with the earliest local intelligence of the city and District, and the general news of the day.

The daily hour of publication will be 6 o'clock in the morning; and during the session of Congress a synopsis of its proceedings will be given up to adjournment, by able reporters; enabling us thus to transmit abroad, through its columns, whatever of interest may transpire, at the earliest hour.

THE WHIG STANDARD will be published, daily, at 10 cents per week, payable to the carriers.

The paper will be mailed to subscribers out of the District, at $5 per annum, payable invariably in advance, or for a shorter period at the above rate.

P. S. All communications by mail must be post paid, or they will remain in the post office.

THE WONDERFUL CURES

Performed by

Dr.

SWAYNE'S

Compound

Syrup

of

Wild Cherry, in

Pulmonary CONSUMPTION.

Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, in Pulmonary CONSUMPTION, have excited the astonishment of all who have witnessed its marvellous effects; there is no account of a medicine, from the earliest ages furnishing a parallel; the almost miraculous cures effected by this extraordinary medicine, are unprecedented. One among the many certificates may be seen below.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 15, 1840.

Dr. SWAYNE—Dear Sir: PERMIT me to take the liberty of writing to you at this time to express my approbation, and to recommend to the attention of heads of families and others your invaluable medicine—the Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, in Pulmonary CONSUMPTION. In my travels of late, I have seen, in a great many instances, the wonderful effects of your medicine in relieving children of very obstinate complaints, such as Coughing, Wheezing, Choking of Phlegm, Asthmatic attacks, &c., &c. I should not have written this letter, however, at present, although I have felt it my duty to add my testimony to it for some time, had it not been for a late instance where the medicine above alluded to was instrumental in restoring to perfect health an "only child," whose case was almost hopeless, in a family of my acquaintance. "I thank Heaven," said the doating mother, "my child is saved from the jaws of death!" and I now say and believe that, beyond all doubt, Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry is the most valuable medicine in this or any other country. I am certain I have witnessed more than one hundred cases where it has been attended with complete success. I am using it myself in an obstinate attack of Bronchitis, in which it proved effectual in an exceedingly short time, considering the severity of the case. I can recommend it in the fullest confidence of its superior virtues; I would advise that no family should be without it; it is very pleasant and always beneficial—worth double, and often ten times its price. The public are assured there is no quackery about it.

R. JACKSON, D.D.

Formerly Pastor

of the First Presbyterian Church, N. Y.

In districts where Calomel and Quinine have been too freely made use of in bilious complaints, &c., Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, will prevent their evil effects on the system, and act as a strengthening alterative and improve the Bilious functions.

CAUTION.—All preparations from this valuable tree, except the original Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, are fictitious and counterfeit. Prepared only by Dr. Swayne, whose office is now removed to N. W. corner of Eighth and Race streets, Philadelphia.

HOARHOUD CANDY.—The subscriber has recently been appointed agent for the sale of Pease's Hoarhound Candy. He could speak from personal knowledge of its beneficial effects in cases of severe cold, coughs, &c., but, lest he may be deemed an interested witness, he adduces the following, among numerous other testimonies, to the same import:

Hermitage, April 17, 1843.

I have the pleasure to acknowledge your kind favor of the 1st ultimo, by the hand of my friend, Mr. J. Armstrong, and with it your most esteemed present, a package of your Hoarhound Candy, for which I receive my sincere thanks. I can only add, that may thousands receive from its use as much benefit as I have done, then will its inventor go down to posterity as one of its benefactors.

I am gentlemen, very respectfully,

Your friend and obd't serv't,

ANDREW JACKSON.

Messrs. Pease & Sons.

Washington, April 6, 1843.

The President desires me to return Messrs. Pease & Sons his acknowledgments and very sincere thanks for the box of Candy received at their hands. He has used it with much benefit to himself, as a remedy for cold and cough. I am, with very much respect,

JOHN TYLER, Jr., Private Secretary.

Albany, May 18, 1842.

Gentlemen: You will pardon me for the delay in replying to your letter of the 14th ultimo, and acknowledging the receipt of a box of your Clarified Essence of Hoarhound Candy.

Allow me to thank you for this kind respect, and to express the hope that you will be liberally patronized in your efforts for the public. The article is got up in beautiful style, and is highly commended by those who have had occasion to use it.

Your obd't serv't,

WM. C. BOUCK.

Messrs. Pease & Sons.

City Hall, New York, June 27, 1843.

Messrs: I have repeatedly used your Candy for coughs and colds, and always found relief, but official duties prevented me from writing to you before. But as I have lately been cured of the influenza, I cannot withhold from recommending the same to the public.

I am yours, truly,

ROBT. H. MORRIS.

Messrs. Pease & Sons, 45 Division street.

Lindencroft, Oct. 14, 1843.

Gentlemen: I have to thank you for the box of your, I doubt not, justly celebrated Clarified Essence of Hoarhound Candy, and also for the very obliging terms in which you have been pleased to present it.

I have not, I am happy to inform you, as yet had occasion to use it, but will do so when necessary, with a confidence in its efficacy which is well warranted by the experience of others.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. VAN BUREN.

After all, the best recommendation of it is a personal application which he invites those afflicted with coughs and all public speakers to make. He will keep a constant supply at his Family Grocery Store, on 7th street, nearly opposite the Patriotic Bank.

S. HOLMES.

MISCELLANEOUS.

[From the Philadelphia Forum.]

THE KENTUCKY FARMER.
TUNE—"The Old Oaken Bucket."

Come on to the contest—the call is loud ringing:
Each son of the Keystone, the call is to you;
The foe all his forces to action is bringing;
The battle-field soon will arise to your view.
Then say "are you ready?" and wait to receive it,
The shock which the freeman must shortly repel;
Right onward! your aid every true son will give it,
And vote for the Farmer who works the farm well!
The Kentucky Farmer,
The honest old Farmer,
We go for the Farmer who works the farm well!

We want no new workmen—no experimenting
On the blood hallowed spot where our forefathers fought;
We'll keep the old path, and there'll be no repenting,
And we'll ever remember good lessons when taught.
Then away in your pride, for the Farmer presiding,
Let the note of approval in loud concert swell,
And his foes may in vain still persist in deriding,
We'll vote for the Farmer who works the farm well!
The Kentucky Farmer,
The honest old Farmer,
We go for the Farmer who works the farm well!

Van Buren and Tyler in vain with their legions
Would vanquish the free in the land of their birth.
And they'll hear in loud thunder that these are the regions
Where no tribute is paid save the tribute of worth!
That tribute is due, and we're going to pay it,
And soon shall they hear the glad triumph tone swell,
On the ninth of December, we'll no longer delay it,
But vote for the Farmer who works the farm well!
The Kentucky Farmer,
The honest old Farmer,
We'll vote for the farmer who works the farm well!

TRUE FEMALE NOBILITY.

The woman, poor and ill clad as she may be, who balances her income and expenditures—who toils and sweats in unremitting mood among all her well trained children, and presents them morning and evening as offerings of love to her husband, in rosy health and cheerful cleanliness, is the most exalted of her sex. Before her shall the proudest dame bow her jewelled head, and the bliss of a happy heart dwell with her forever. If there is one prospect dearer than another to the soul of man—if there is one act more likely to bend the proud and inspire the brokenhearted—it is for a smiling wife to meet her husband at the door with his host of happy children. How it stirs up the blood of an exhausted man when he hears a rush of many feet upon the staircase—when the throw and the carol of their young voices mix in glad confusion—and the smallest mounts or sinks into his arms amidst a mirthful shout. It was a halo from every countenance that beamed around a group! There was joy and a blessing there.—London Journal.

SHORT BUT EFFECTUAL DIRECTIONS FOR VARIOUS ENDS.

To embitter domestic life—maintain your opinion on small matters at the point of the bayonet.

To secure yourself against a candid hearing—call men hard names before you have signified them.

To keep yourself in a state of discontent—set your heart on having everything exactly to your mind.

To involve yourself in inextricable difficulty—shape your course of action not by fixed principles, but by temporary expedients.

To provide for yourself abundant matter for shame and repentance—act under the influence of passion.

To die without accomplishing anything—always intend to do something great hereafter, but neglect the present humble opportunity of usefulness.

To gain extensive usefulness—seize the present opportunity great or small, and improve it to the utmost.

To govern children (and men too)—commend them often than you blame them.

To be a successful reprover—first convince men by substantial deeds of kindness that you love them.

To be always contented—consider that you will never in this life be free from annoyances, and that you may as well bear them patiently as fret about them.

When religion is made a science, there is nothing more intricate; when a duty, there is nothing more easy.

We love women a little for what we do know of them, and a great deal more for what we do not.

Let no man ever expect to prosper in this life, or gain the respect and esteem of others, without an undeviating course of integrity and virtue.

Never look for ancestors of your titles, in the imperfect records of antiquity; look into your own virtues and the history of those who lived to be benefactors of society.

The greatest pleasure of life is love; the greatest treasure contentment; the greatest possession is health; the greatest ease is sleep, and the best medicine a true friend.

If a man has a right to be proud of anything it is of a good action, done, as it ought to be, without any base interest lurking at the bottom of it.

Constant occupation prevents temptation and begets contentment; and content is the true philosopher's stone.

Men in bull-beggar tones demand of Fate a root of life-liquorice, thick as the arm, like the botanical one of the Walgs, not so much that they may chew the sweet bean themselves, as fell others to the earth with it.

The man who wants the bayonet and the law to enforce his opinions, admits from bygone conclusions, that his arguments are not in themselves sufficient to enforce conviction.

In retrospection we shake away the snow of time from the wintergreen of memory; and behold the fair years of childhood, uncovered, fresh, green, and balmy, standing afar off before us.

The longer portion of life is a field beaten flat as a threshing floor, without lofty Gothard mountains; often it is a tedious ice-field without a single glacier tinged with dawn.

In the summer of life, men keep digging and filling ice-pits, as well as circumstances will admit; that so, in their winter, they may have something in store to give them coolness.

It is said that Whitfield once said to a brother who had made a very long prayer—"Brother, you prayed me into a good frame, and you prayed me out of it again."

Eudeavor to tell your own weakness when you are under the necessity of teaching wisdom to fools and politicians.

It has been shrewdly remarked by some one, that there are four orders of woman: the peacocks, with whom dress is all; the magpies, with whom chatter is all; the turtle doves, with whom love is all; and the paradise birds, above them all.

The mechanic who is ashamed of his apron, or the farmer who is ashamed of his flock, is himself a shame to his profession.

Advice.—Never run in debt, if you can get any one to treat you.

When you find it impossible to ride on your journey, walk.

If you think, in resenting an injury, you are sure of getting decently flogged, pocket the affront, and walk off with a smile. It is time enough to look savage when you are out of sight.

If you have no hat to put on, wear a cap. If you have got neither, go bare
